The Castle, St. Andrews. Standing on a rock rising abruptly from the sea on the far east of the foreland is the empty but beautiful shell of the Bishop's Castle (built in 1200), from one of whose windows Cardinal Beaton watched the burning of George Wishart (1546). John Knox, though not one of the avengers, here joined the besieged garrison who stood out for 11 months, only being conquered by aid of a French fleet.
